Wife Chops Off Hand In Penance

MERCED, Cal., Aug. 24 (AP)—A story of how his wife, obsessed with the idea she had sinned, chopped off her left hand and gouged out her right eye was told from a jail cell here today by Woodrow Harwell, 20-year-old Texas cotton picker.

District Attorney F. A. Silveira quoted Harwell as saying he and his two young stepsons knelt in prayer yesterday afternoon in their one-room cabin while his 26-year-old wife read from the Bible.

'CAST IT FROM THEE'

She read Matthew 18:8, 9: "And if thy hand or thy foot causeth thee to stumble, cut it off, and cast it from thee; it is good for thee to enter into life maimed or halt, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into the eternal fire."

"And if thine eye causeth thee to stumble, pluck it out, and cast it from thee; it is good for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into the hell of fire."

Mrs. Harwell rose from prayer, her husband related, saying her left hand offended her and she

Japs Slay 14 In Airliner

HONGKONG, Aug. 24 (AP)—The American pilot of a Chinese airliner reported today that Japanese warplanes had forced him to set his plane down near Canton and then machine-gunned it, killing or wounding at least 14 of the 17 persons aboard.

H. L. Woods, of Hays, Kansas, the pilot, reached Macao unhurt. All others on the plane were Chinese. The forced landing was made on a small river between Canton and Macao, Portuguese colony 50 miles to the south.

Woods sent this message to the China National Aviation Corporation, owners of the plane.

Seize 2 in Dope Ring Drive Here

In a drive on an alleged East Boston dope ring, a woman and a man were taken into custody by narcotic agents today.

They are Edward Campagna of Paris street, East Boston, 29-year-old Concord parolee, previously convicted for armed robbery, and Mrs. Stella Cappuci, 25, of Loring street, South Boston.

Additional arrests were promised by Assistant U. S. Attorney William McCarthy.

Both Mrs. Cappuci and Campagna were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner H. N. Guterman later in the day. Mrs. Cappuci was released in $1000 bail, pending a hearing set for one week from today. Campagna was held in bonds of $5000.

Daniel J. Curran of the police narcotic squad, and Federal Agent Stephen Caparano charged they found a quantity of dope in a search of the Cappuci home in Loring street.

Another man, sought for questioning, dived into the underbrush and escaped when Curran and Caparano started to close in on him in the Fenway.

In another narcotics case today, Commissioner Guterman ordered charges against Patrick Shaughnessey and John Hayes, both of South End, Boston, dismissed.

Federal agents testified they arrested the two men after seeing them talking together and finding a tin-foil-wrapped package of narcotics in an alleyway nearby.

"All Lies," Says Hines

By EDWIN G. HILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—As George Weinberg today resumed his vicious attacks against the integrity and character of James J. Hines, Mr. Hines solemnly vowed to this writer his absolute innocence.

"I tell you," he said, "that I feel sick as I sit here and listen to that fellow telling lies after lies. Only once has he dared to look me in the face. For a moment his gaze met mine and then he turned his head quickly away. There is not a word attributed to me which is based on fact—every word that Weinberg has testified to concerning me is a deliberate and wretched falsehood. You can never make me believe that the jury will believe such testimony as that."

Harlem, declared from the witness stand today that J. Richard "Dixie" Davis, the gang's "mouthpiece," had told him to give James J. Hines thousands of dollars to elect William C.

Solons Call Subway Quiz

As last pieces of business before prorogation, the 150th Massachusetts Legislature today passed a new appropriation bill of $35,908 for additional funds and referred the Cambridge subway extension matter to House ways and means committee.

The committee called a public hearing after representatives from Cambridge and many of their constituents had dashed down to the governor's office, seeking such a hearing.

Also the House, by a roll call vote of 172 to 17, passed a measure to permit the Metropolitan Water Commission to spend $14,500,000 in constructing pressure tunnels from its reservoir to Boston. The MWA will contribute.

When the subway matter, the subject of a surprise special message to the Legislature yesterday after adjournment, is settled, all legislative business will have been completed and prorogation is expected before nightfall.

$21,000 FOR SELVES

The $35,908 in new appropriations today includes an item of $21,000 the solons voted to themselves as additional travel expenses because of the overtime session, longest in the state's history.

This averages $75 a man for the 280 legislators in both branches.

There was considerable of a dither among the legislators over the additional cash to themselves, there having been somewhat of a stricken outcry by the taxpayers a few years ago when solons likewise voted themselves extra funds.

However, the opposition was too feeble to match the strength of the proponents and the $21,000 came through.

The other $14,908 is for additional expenses also due to the long session, and it includes $3900 for increase in expenditures of the State Emergency Public Works Commission, $4500 for a special commission to study the need for improvements at the John Adams Hospital at the Chelsea Soldiers' Home, $2000 for additional telephone charges and $250 for additional expenses of the House Ways and Means Committee.

$81,615,872 TOTAL

Today's additional appropriations bring the grand total for the year to $81,615,872, a record.

While these last-minute matters were being attended to, Governor Hurley and his executive council were meeting to give the necessary consent to the Legislature's prorogation.

The end of the session had been expected earlier, as a result of the Governor's surprise move in signing the $5,000,000 work relief bill.

ELECTION APPEAL—"Don't vote for me!" That's what Thomas H. Leary of Cambridge is asking voters as he makes an active campaign against election as delegate to the Democratic state convention. Battle Against Ballots

Leary Takes His Plea to Phone

It was a police day-off today for Special Officer Thomas P. Leary of Cambridge—the candidate who doesn't want the office—and he spent the day in a telephone campaign, asking people not to vote for him.

While he was on his vacation, all unawares, some scalawag filed nomination papers in his name for delegate to the Democratic state convention from Ward 9, Cambridge.

And no police officer, under the law, is allowed to be a candidate for elective public office.

It was pretty distressing for Leary to discover that the people were with him and that there was only one vague opponent in the field.

Since then Leary has been conducting a vigorous campaign against himself and is canvassing the ward, asking the voters not to cast ballots for him.

Recently he began studying in a course of public speaking, the more impressively to lower his own chances, and as a result set to speak before clubs and fraternal organizations.

"I'm in this fight to lose," said the recalcitrant candidate today, between telephone calls, "and I trust that when the voters go to the polls they will do their duty."

Point With Pride as He Views With Alarm His Election

President Raps Poll Party Shifts

By GEORGE DURNO

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug.

24—President Roosevelt today had made another vigorous thrust at what he termed a complete violation of political morality in connection with current Democratic primary campaign.

The President condemned a reported movement to put Republican votes into the Democratic primaries of Maryland and Georgia.

In Maryland, Mr. Roosevelt is opposing Sen. Millard Tydings and asking for the nomination of Rep. David Lewis, a complete New Dealer. In Georgia, the White House blessing has been put on U. S. Attorney Lawrence Camp, who is running against the veteran anti-New Deal Sen. Walter George.

The President said that deliberate excursions of Republicans into Democratic primaries was a complete violation of political morality.

CITES IDAHO RESULT

Denying emphatically anything other than an interest in principle—as against individual candidates—the President cited the recent results in Idaho.

Sen. James P. Pope, who may yet run as an independent with New Deal support, was beaten by Rep. D. Worth Clark, a conservative Democrat by about 3000 votes.

The President pointed out that the difference in the 1936 and the 1938 Idaho primary votes indicated clearly that between 15,000 and 20,000 Republicans had entered the Democratic primary solely to vote for Clark.

Mr. Roosevelt called on the "Tory press" to rectify this slap at the direct primary system. He said he would oppose Republican votes in a Democratic primary equally if they should happen to be aimed at helping a particular friend of his.

FROWN FOR O'CONNOR

The effort of Rep. John O'Connor of New York, to get both the Democratic and Republican nominations likewise was condemned. The President said such tactics came in the same category as which he objected. O'Connor is another of those marked for defeat by the White House.

There was still a big question mark hovering over reports Mr. Roosevelt personally would invade Maryland and the 16th New York district in opposition to Tydings and O'Connor. The President smilingly insisted he had no engagements of that nature so far.

TANNIS TUGWELL

Boy Suitor Pines for Tugwell Girl

CUMBERLAND, HOME-STEADS, Tenn., Aug. 24 (INS)—A husky mountaineer, Sevier (Stub) Watley, 22, son of a former coal miner, hopelessly pined today for the heart and hand of beautiful Tannis Tugwell, daughter of Rexford Guy Tugwell, President Roosevelt's former No. 1 idea man.

Stub confided in friends he thought he had won his "dream woman" but that after he got a marriage license she suddenly returned to Washington.

The marriage license, according to records at Crossville, Tenn., was issued July 30 for Sevier Watley, 22 and Tannis Tugwell, 21. Miss Tugwell had been at the Homesteads for three months helping with the production of a pageant.

She returned to Washington Tuesday, and is reported to have denied any engagement or planned marriage with Watley or anyone else. She is a clerk in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Fight to Save Baby, 25 Ounces

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP)—A 25-ounce baby boy clung to life today in a St. Joseph's Hospital incubator.

Born prematurely to Mrs. Anthony Tank, the 12½-inch-long infant has been kept alive with oxygen and fed a mixture of glucose and water by medicine dropper. Physicians said he had a "good chance" to live.

Mothers Hope Love May Find a Way!

Cupid in On Baby 'Swap'

Close friends since their babies were accidentally "swapped" for a few tense hours at City Hospital two months ago, Mrs. Kathleen Lisenby of Brighton and Mrs. Mary O'Brien of Charlestown shared two hopes today.

They hoped Baby John Lisenby and Baby Patricia O'Brien might grow up to become sweethearts.

And they hoped the two City Hospital nurses who lost their jobs because of the "swap" might be reinstated.

As the two young mothers chatted together at the O'Brien home in Moulton street, Charlestown, little John and little Patricia gurgled and cooed contentedly side by side. Said Mrs. Lisenby:

"Wouldn't it be nice if some day they fell in love and got married?"

Mrs. O'Brien agreed: "It would be just like in a story book or a movie."

DRAMATIC ERROR

And she had good reason for her comment, too. Because it was only that unprecedented—and much bewailed—City Hospital mix-up which brought the life orbits of the Lisenbys and the O'Briens together.

Mrs. Lisenby, by dramatic error, took the newborn O'Brien mite home as her son. When she found she had been given an infant girl, she was near hysteria.

Meantime, City Hospital authorities had discovered the mistake and had taken immediate action to rectify it.

When Mrs. Lisenby, still a maternity ward patient, learned of the "swap" next day, her own tiny daughter was back in the hospital nursery and Baby Lisenby was in his rightful mother's arms.

Talking it all over, in retrospect, today, the two mothers would have laughed if they hadn't been just a little indignant.

"It was really too bad those nurses should have lost their jobs," Mrs. Lisenby said.

"Both Mrs. O'Brien and I interceded for them. And we've inquired about them since, but the hospital people wouldn't give us much information."

"NO HARM DONE"

"Mightn't it be possible, even now, for those girls to be taken back? No real harm was done as it all turned out."

"When our babies grow up and we tell them about what happened, it would be awful if we had to say the swap ruined two young women's whole careers."

Mrs. Lisenby stopped talking to make Baby Lisenby give back Baby O'Brien's rattle.

So Mrs. O'Brien spoke her mind, too.

"Firing those nurses was a shame," she said. "If there's any way of getting them their jobs back, they can count on the O'Briens and the Lisenbys."

All through Mayor Mansfield's administration, certain members of his official family addicted to the "numbers game" religiously played No. 576, the license number of the mayor's official automobile.

They didn't "hit" once.

Since January, some members of Mayor Tobin's staff, similarly addicted, likewise have been playing "576."

There was rejoicing in the mayor's office today.

Fatal Rail Cavein Laid to Trucks

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Aug. 24 (INS)—Heavy truck traffic over U. S. Route 40 was blamed today for the cavein of a section of a tunnel on a branch line of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad which trapped and killed an itinerant worker.

TOMORROW'S SWEETHEARTS?—Who knows? Anyhow, their mamas hope they'll prove just that when they grow up. They are little John Lisenby and little Patricia O'Brien, the babies who figured in recent "swap" case at City Hospital. They are pictured "visiting" at home of Mrs. Mary O'Brien, Charlestown. Find Newton Woman Lost in N. H. Storm

Object of an 18-hour search in storm-swept woods near Bridgewater, N. H., Mrs. Edith Talbot, 68, well known Newton church and clubwoman was found by a volunteer group today.

A huge collie dog which accompanied Mrs. Talbot when she entered the forest yesterday afternoon was said by police to have saved her life by helping shelter her from violent thunder storms.

The woman apparently fell asleep and did not awaken until the storm broke after dark. Police Chief Robert E. Gilpatrick led a posse of more than 100 volunteers throughout the night and shortly after daybreak found Mrs. Talbot unharmed.

Dancing Don Jose's Wife 'She Make Plenty Hell'

PONCE, Puerto Rico, Aug. 24 (INS)—Don Jose Tormos Diego, the mayor of Ponce, who recently had his appendix removed in Washington, reflected today on whether a triumphant reception by his people compensated for a stormy one at home.

The folks of Ponce turned out to give him a lavish welcome when he returned, but things were different when his wife heard he had danced the rumba while in Washington with Zasu Pitts, the movie star.

"My wife, she make plenty of hell," he said. "She say I'm crazy to dance the rumba with handage on the belly. She tell me I'm too old for such foolishness."

"But that Zasu is one fine, nice girl, by damn. She can rumba, too."

More than 10,000 persons turned out to greet Don Jose, and a triumphal arch was erected in his honor. At home, not so good.

Order to Steam Felons Traced

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24 (AP)—A picture of death among convicts driven "stark mad" by steam heat in an "air-tight cell block" was drawn today by two officials investigating the deaths of four hunger-striking inmates of the Philadelphia County Prison.

Coroner Charles H. Hersch said autopsies disclosed that the four—described by Warden William B. Mills as "agitators" in a strike of 600 prisoners—died of suffocation in the punishment cells where their nude, battered bodies were found.

COMORER QUOTED

The coroner was quoted as saying the four, along with some 20 other inmates, were placed in the cells, that the windows were closed and that the steam was turned into the radiators—under orders from a prison official.

"We have ascertained that one of the guards said, 'Let's give the heat,' the heat," Hersch was quoted as saying, "A short time later orders were given to turn on the heat."

"We know the guard who turned on the heat. What we want to establish now is, who gave him the order."

Similar versions of how they said the deaths occurred were given by Hersch and Assistant District Attorney John A. Boyle, who said:

"Interrogation of witnesses revealed conditions much more like the black hole of Calcutta, in Holmesburg, rather than a modern prison."

Boyle declared that nobody went near the place (punishment cells) all night.

"All night long," he said, "the prisoners were screaming and yelling to have the steam shut off."

"They needed water desperately. There was only one way to get water and that was from the toilet hoppers. So those who had shirts on tore them off and soaked them in the hopper water and rubbed the wet shirts on their faces and bodies to keep alive."

SAYS MEN WENT MAD

"The men went stark mad during the night," the assistant district attorney continued. "They saw the weaker convicts go raving mad, then drop to the floor, and then die."

The coroner said Morris Spitz and Joseph Forte, two prisoners found in the same cells with the bodies, were seriously ill.

The coroner took charge of the general investigation, with separate inquiries underway by state, county, city and other officials.

Warden Mills said he would turn the prison over to any accredited investigating body.

"There is nothing in this prison that can be or will be concealed," Mills declared. "If there's anything wrong in here, I'm the guy who wants to know it."

Trail, Stab Quincy Driver

Forest R. Rich, 35, of Wollaston boulevard, Quincy, was stabbed in the chest early today in North Cambridge after being forced to the curb by occupants of a pursuing automobile.

His injury was described as not serious at City Hospital where he was treated and released.

Rich told police he had given a lift to a young woman from the Back Bay to Cambridge when occupants in another car followed and forced him to the curb.

When he refused a demand for money, a man stabbed him and then fled with the girl, police said.

Incendiary Fire Sends 3 to Jail

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Aug. 24.—An incendiary fire three years ago today resulted in prison sentences for a man, his wife, and the son of the woman whose home was burned for $200 insurance.

Thomas R. Bamberger, 37, who pleaded guilty to setting the blaze, Mrs. Pearl Bamberger, 36, confessor of her part in the conspiracy and John Nolan, 31, who also pleaded guilty, started prison terms today.

Breaks Leg, Walks 3 Miles

Albert Pushee, 12, of O'Callahan way, South Boston, who won fleeting fame with his three-mile walk on a broken leg, was "resting comfortably" at home today, the leg in a cast.

Disobeying the orders of a doctor who ordered him to a hospital, Albert instead walked home. At home the pain became so great that his father took him to the City Hospital, then home again.

Albert injured his leg when his bicycle crashed into an automobile on Dorchester avenue.

12 Face Quiz About Graves

At least 12 witnesses will be called by the state against Frederick H. Graves, held in Charles street jail awaiting probable perjury charges, Assistant District Attorney Frederick Doyle said today.

Doyle declined to say whether the "prominent Boston attorney" and "Boston business executive," said to have been named by Graves as the two men who paid him in the recent Curley case, will be among those called.

FLEA AMUSES FOLEY

The charges against Graves, Doyle said, will come before Judge Frederick W. Fowdick, before whom Graves testified in the Curley case. Doyle's appointment to handle the prosecution was announced today by District Attorney William Foley.

At the same time, Foley only smiled at Graves' request to be permitted to go to New York for the week-end.

Graves, it was learned, has sought permission to visit New York woman who allegedly can substantiate the story that he was paid a large sum to testify falsely on one of the two occasions he gave evidence concerning the General Equipment Corporation settlement.

MUST HAVE BAIL

"Graves is just like any other prisoner and can be released only if he $10,000 bail, double surely, is furnished," Foley decided.

The unusual request was first sent by Graves to the Boston detectives who rushed him back here post haste following his arrest in Chicago. He stated he was willing to have the police accompany him on the mission in search of corroborating evidence to his story.

Campaign Fund Data Sought

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Senate campaign expenditures committee hastened preparation today of a new questionnaire asking for latest information about senatorial candidates' "War Chests."

Chairman Sheppard (D) of Texas request of Rep. Lewis (D) of Maryland, New Deal candidate against Senator Tydings.

Apparently Lewis desires that reports on expenditures in the contest be brought up to date before the Maryland primary September 12, Sheppard explained.

Lewis asked the committee to ascertain the source of certain contributions to Tydings' campaign fund and to trace the sponsorship of advertisements declaring that the CIO was financing Lewis' race.

Son Drowned, Dad Shoots Camp Head

MANDEVILLE, La., Aug. 24 (INS)—Frankie with grief over the drowning of his 15-year-old son at a Baptist summer camp near here, Murray McQuire shot and severely wounded the Rev. G. Kearney Keegan, who was in charge of the camp.

Bleeding profusely from bullet wounds in the side and in one leg, Rev. Keegan said as he was being rushed to a hospital:

"I hope the Lord will forgive him. He didn't know what he was doing."

8 Men, Woman Grilled on Quilt Torso Clue

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24 (AP)—Detectives questioned eight men and a woman today after police followed the trail of a tattered quilt, prime clue in Cleveland's twelve "torso killings," to a rag shop only two blocks from a field where a woman's dissected body was found nearly three years ago.

Detectives under Sergt. James McDonald descended on the rag shop after a junk collector, Elmer Cummings, 56, told them he had disposed of the quilt, found wrapped about the torso of the eleventh victim at the shop five weeks ago.

Inspector Nevel, who said the quilt was "the only real clue" in the three-year-old mystery, hoped one of the nine would shed light on the person who wrapped the quilt around the fifth woman to die in the bizarre series of killings.

The rag shop where the junk man disposed of the quilt is but two blocks from the field where the dissected body of Mrs. Florence Pollitt, 42, victim No. 3, was found in January, 1936. Her head was never found. Parts of her body had been placed in baskets.

Police sought out the junk man after Charles Darny, a barber, told of giving the quilt with some clothing to a junk collector last month.

Revamp Wage, Labor Laws

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 24 (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders placed at the top of their legislative "must" list today proposals for congressional revamping of two important labor laws—the wage-hour act and the Wagner labor board act.

The federation's executive council, President William Green disclosed, agreed to ask Congress for changes in the wage-hour measure and has under consideration proposals for drastic changes in the National Labor Relations law.

Amendments to be sought for both measures will be aimed at curbing broad administrative and quasi-judicial powers delegated by Congress.

Along with the proposed amendments to the Wagner act, the council has received from Joseph A. Padway, A. F. of L. general counsel, an analysis of labor board decisions involving contests for bargaining rights between federation craft unions and CIO industrial unions.

Arraigned on a charge of murder in the ice-pick slaying of 60-year-old Mrs. Catherine Bruni, South End "house-warming" hostess, Kenneth McLane, 59, of Arlington street, South End, was held without bail today.

McLane said he was a former Northwest Mounted police officer.

He entered a not guilty plea in Municipal court today, insisting he "must have been asleep" when Mrs. Bruni was killed.

McLane was arrested in Mrs. Bruni's Washington street lodgings, where neighbors said there had been a noisy drinking party.

Screams called police, who found Mrs. Bruni stabbed and beaten to death, apparently with an ice-pick and knife sharpener.

Autopsy Closes Mrs. Wolfe Case

Investigation into the death of Mrs. Esther H. Wolfe, formerly of Commonwealth avenue, was apparently closed today, following the exhuming of her body and an autopsy report by Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary.

Death occurred from natural causes, Dr. Leary found.

Her son had expressed a belief that his mother might have been injured to Portland, Me., and robbed of $3000 in cash and $5000 in gems.

Langmaid's Suicide Laid To Finances

Inability to make a salesman's pay cover the cost of living a socialite's life, today was seen as the motive for the suicide of Benjamin Langmaid, 25, former football and hockey star.

He was found dead in an automobile at Sherborn, a bullet in his head and a new rifle beside him.

Living in the fashionable Marlborough Neck section, Langmaid was a member of the Eastern Yacht Club and the Vesper Country Club. He had been employed by a Lynn box manufacturing concern.

Outstanding Williams College athlete he had also been a member of the Olympic skating team.

His widow, the former Marion C. Curtin of Pittsfield, is a sister of the late Thomas Curtin, former captain of the Yale football team. He died in 1936, following a trip to Japan with the Yale baseball team.

Vt. Grand Juror Declared Suicide

MONTPELIER, Vt., Aug. 24—Charles W. Chisholm, 33, grand juror and candidate for Democratic nomination as state's attorney, found dead with a bullet wound in his head, today was declared a suicide.

Police were mystified and could give no reason for his action.

WPA Surplus? Nope!

LAWRENCE, Aug. 24—Harry Hopkins should hear about this. Daniel F. Ferris, commissioner of engineering, today was worried about his sidewalk projects, falling steadily behind because of a shortage of Works Progress Administration labor.

Despite a city-wide search, only 18 cement finishers are on jobs which require 24 workers.

Dies Probers in N. Y. For Secret Inquiry

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (INS)—A sub-committee of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities appeared unexpectedly today at the Federal Building and announced an immediate private hearing.

Congressman J. Parnell Thomas (R.), of New Jersey, in charge of the sub-committee, was secretive. "We are to inquire into an important matter about which nothing can be said at present," Thomas declared. "This hearing in private is a preliminary one, and the matter, if developed, will be brought out at subsequent open hearings.

"The procedure is the same as that followed by the full committee in Washington. If the matter does not develop it will be dropped."

Chairman of the sub-committee is Congressman Joe Tamm, of Alabama, and the third member Congressman John J. Dempsey, of New Mexico. John C. Metcalf, investigator, and a stenographer, are with the sub-committee.

Ace Prober Due Here In Red Quiz

Ace Investigator Edward F. Sullivan of the Dies congressional investigating committee was expected here today to take charge of a renewed probe of alleged Communist activities in Boston.

Groundwork for Sullivan's inquiry is the story told by Alvin Halpern, Boston deserter from the Spanish Loyalist army, who already has testified before the committee in Washington concerning Spanish Loyalist recruiting here.

SOBEL STORY AIDS TOO

Halpern's story was published several months ago exclusively in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Abraham Sobel, also a Bostonian and, like Halpern, an ex-Spanish Loyalist soldier, similarly is understood to be helping the investigators.

A number of special "undercover" agents, working here for several days, were waiting to report to Sullivan it was learned.

Both Halpern and Sobel face possible trouble for alleged technical violation of American neutrality laws which forbid the recruiting or enlistment here of men to engage in foreign warfare.

WANTS JUSTICE SIFT

Representative Mosier (D.), of Ohio, asked yesterday that the matter of their alleged falsification of statements in their passport applications be turned over to the Department of Justice.

The Dies committee, meanwhile, is asking that its investigators and clerical help be placed on WPA payroll. Members of the committee assert the $25,000 appropriation at their disposal is insufficient.

Bay Pollution Hearings Near

Public hearings will be held in the near future by the special legislative commission appointed to investigate pollution of Boston Harbor, Quincy Bay and adjacent waters.

This was decided at a meeting of the commission appointed as a direct result of the Boston Evening American's and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's exposure of facts concerning the bacteria-laden water, especially at waterfront bathing beaches.

Eight out of ten samples taken by the nationally known firm of Sherman & Skinner showed the water to be unfit for bathing.

Emphasis has been placed in the fact that pollution of the city's beaches not only is disastrous to health but also to property values.

Already suggested are sewage treatment plants on Nut Island, Moon Island, Deer Island and at Squantum. PWA funds may be available for this purpose.

Chairman of the special legislative commission, which held its organization meeting yesterday, is Senator Harris Richardson, of Winchester.

Others attending the meeting were Senator Joseph Donahue, Representatives Joseph Milano, William Hastings Joseph Whitten, A. E. Morris and George McMahon.

Chairman E. C. Hullman, of the Metropolitan District Commission; A. D. Weston, director of the division of sanitary engineering of the state board of health; Dr. A. S. Pope, deputy state health commissioner and Robert Shea of Boston city sewer department.

Fascist Party In Vatican Pact

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, today announced an agreement between the Fascist party and Catholic Action, lay organization of the Catholic church, permitting leaders of each organization to be members of the other.

This was the newspaper's explanation of the agreement announced by Fascist headquarters last Saturday to end friction between the two organizations.

(The Fascist party bulletin said an agreement had been reached "to conform to the accord reached in 1931," which ended an earlier dispute between Fascism and Catholic Action. The settlement that year permitted Catholic Action to function in Italy, but limited its scope to purely religious and spiritual matters.)

L'Osservatore Romano said "authoritative assurances" had been given that questions of relations between Catholic Action and the Fascist party, which were not included in the accord of 1931, "have been duly clarified."

Thief Misses Bridal Paper

Loss of a gold brooch, valued at $100, and of a wallet, containing a small sum of money and her auto registration and driving license, were no longer a heartache today to young Mrs. Sally Newman of Cambridge street, Cambridge.

For she had back her stolen marriage certificate, after she had made a public appeal to the supposed thief.

She didn't hear from the thief. But in an overlooked pocket of her otherwise empty handbag, recovered by the police, she found the missing document.

29 Police Due For Promotion

At least 29 police officers will receive promotions today as Police Commissioner Timilty fills existing vacancies by naming 17 sergeants and 12 lieutenants.

There was a probability also that he would go beyond the vacancy list and name 20 sergeants and 15 lieutenants.

Timilty said he would go straight down the civil list in making the promotions.

Saltonstall Asks Labor Aid

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Democratic and Republican candidates moved forward at "double time" today, with one of the most bitter primary battles in years only four weeks away.

Leverett Saltonstall, Republican candidate for the nomination for governor, besought the support of labor at rallies in Brockton.

"The many progressive laws on our statute books, enacted during my Speakership in the House, are tangible proof of my friendship for labor," Saltonstall declared.

"I was constantly consulted by the leaders of labor and my office was always open to them. Labor has always received my active support in the passage of progressive legislation."

At the same time, former Governor James M. Curley began a swing through western Massachusetts, where he promised to lessen crime and unemployment if returned to the office he relinquished two years ago.

Curley promised to create a state agency to cope with unemployment, which he termed "one of the chief causes of criminal tendencies."

The prediction that Governor Hurley would be returned to office was voiced by William J. Moore, his campaign manager.

Moore declared the governor's Democratic opponents knew they could not win but would continue a "battle of destruction" and thus help immeasurably the chances of the Republican party.

Meanwhile Lieutenant Governor

Francis E. Kelly denounced his Democratic opponents with the charge they were banded together in a "Stop Kelly" movement. He addressed rallies in Hyde Park and Roslindale.

Richard Whitcomb, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, announced he had not received a single campaign contribution of any amount from any financial institution or corporation.

He declared this announcement was made to halt "a whispering campaign" against his candidacy.

Former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield flatly denied he had agreed to support the candidacy of Governor Hurley in the primaries, as he did two years ago. He said:

"There is no truth whatever in the report that I have promised my support to the governor. I have entered into no agreement, understanding or compact of any kind."

Mansfield refused to comment on whether he would support any of the candidates in the present fight.

Slayer Bartolini Granted New Stay to Sept. 30

Oscar Bartolini, condemned to die for the murder of Mrs. Grayce Asquith, Weymouth widow, was granted another stay, this time until September 30, by the Governor's Council today.

The stay was granted upon representations of Attorney G. B. Lourie, representing Bartolini, who told the Governor and council he is preparing a motion for a new trial for Bartolini, but that he could not complete his work by August 30, when the last stay granted Bartolini would have expired.

The council today also confirmed the appointment of James McDonough of Newton to be chairman of the Massachusetts Industrial and development commission, vice Eugene McSweeney, who resigned to become head of the state police.

List Thousands 'Paid to Hines'

Dodge district attorney in the city election of 1933.

Weinberg said that in October of that year he gave Hines money for the campaign "on various occasions."

"Davis told me a number of times to give $3000 and $2000 to the 'Old Man' (Hines) for the campaign," the witness declared.

HELPED ELECT DODGE

Weinberg also told, with apparently airy indifference, how "the Dutchman," battling desperately against a federal income tax evasion "rap," milked the racket bankroll of $250,000 to finance his court fight.

According to Weinberg, Dutch Schultz gave orders to "concentrate on the district attorney's office" in the campaign. He quoted Schultz as saying:

"The D. A. has a chance where the mayor has not."

Dodge was elected district attorney in that campaign. F. H. LaGuardia, who was opposed by the mob, was victorious in the mayoralty battle.

"GAVE HIM THOUSANDS"

Weinberg testified that the first money he gave to Hines was at the Hines home, 444 Central Park West. At another time, he said, he gave money to Hines at Attorney Joseph Shalleck's office.

Dodge was at Shalleck's office, said Weinberg, adding that on that occasion he gave Hines $3000. Shalleck is now a member of defense counsel at the present trial.

Weinberg told the blue ribbon jury that Hines introduced him to Dodge as:

"Here is one of Dutch Schultz's boys."

He said the smallest sum he gave Hines was $2000, the highest $3000. In all, he declared he gave the Tammany leader a total of $15,000.

Q—By (Dewey)—Was the money you gave to Hines listed in the records of your enterprise?
A—Yes.

TOTAL OF $32,000

Weinberg said that in addition to the $15,000, Davis gave Hines $15,000 before the election. He said that after the election of Dodge Davis gave Hines "2000 or 3000 more," making a grand total of $32,000 or $33,000.

Schultz's expenses in his income tax court battle multiplied to such an extent, Weinberg said, that finally the gang leader served notice on Hines he would have to reduce the sums he was paying. Hines, Weinberg said, meekly replied:

"If things are going I guess I'll have to take a cut."

Relating to his conversation with Schultz regarding the campaign, Weinberg quoted Schultz as having said:

"We'll have to help Jimmy Hines on the election and give him all the money he needs."

Judge Ferdinand Pecora leaned forward on the bench and asked the witness if he recalled how many times he had given money to Hines for the campaign fund.

"Five or six times," replied Weinberg.

Each time he gave money to Hines he instructed "Big Harry" Shoenhaus, the gang's chief bookkeeper, to "charge it" on the master sheets of the syndicate, Weinberg said.

MONEY IN STORAGE

Weinberg said the Schultz mob had money stored in a vault—the accumulated profits from the policy racket. From time to time, Schultz borrowed some of the money.

"How much money (from spring, 1933) until March, 1934, did you instruct Shoenhaus to draw from the vault and give to Schultz?"

"Two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars," replied Weinberg in a matter-of-fact tone. Finally, after the Dutchman kept "dipping into" the vault, there was "only $10,000 or $20,000 left."

The witness then told how the mob fixed the numbers at the race tracks. He said the idea of doing this was "sold" to Schultz by Otto Berman in the fall of 1933. Berman's nicknames were "Abadiah" and "Havazach."

NO BREAK FOR SICKER

There was no "even break" for a sucker in the numbers racket, according to Weinberg. He told how race track pari mutuel totals—on which the so-called "lucky" number payoff was based—were fixed through the tossing in of sufficient money as race-track bets to insure a heavily-played number was not recorded by the machine.

"A few days before the track opened in Cincinnati, I told Harry Wolf, Ed Maloney, Flores and Abe Landsau to check on all bets over 30 cents and also to mark down the slips and the numbers on them," said Weinberg.

"Then I would call Otto in Cincinnati and tell him which was my worst number—which had the heaviest bets on it and he would protect that number so it wouldn't come up."

'Cafe Society' Lead To Madeleine Carroll

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24. The mysterious deal that brought Madeleine Carroll back to Hollywood a full month before she expected to return from her native England was revealed today as a Paramount picture.

Madeleine put her signature on a contract that calls for her to be the bright and shining star in 'Cafe Society.' She will have Fred Mac Murray as her costarring partner and Shirley Ross in the third role.

'Cafe Society' in case you haven't heard it. Louella Parsons tells how a 'Cafe Society' picture, the motion picture, was developed from the time of her first meeting with the actress and how it happened when she left wearing ultra-slim and the Big Apple.

The beautiful, blonde, English actress, when she first arrived in Hollywood, was partly spent in making independent pictures. Her first film was 'The Sign of the Cross' in 1928. She then wrote and acted in 'The Sign of the Cross' and 'The Sign of the Cross'.

After that, she acted in 'The Sign of the Cross' and 'The Sign of the Cross' and 'The Sign of the Cross' and 'The Sign of the Cross'.

Thomas Ince, who was the first to discover her, was the first to discover her.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

THE WHOLE TOWN WAS TALKING BASEBALL in the gay spots after the Frank plus Dick Merriwell finish the Red Sox staged in the second game of the double-header with Cleveland. . . . Owner Tom Yawkey of the Bostonians celebrated quietly with Herb Pennock, and Herb's lovely missus, at the Ritz Roof. . . .

Then there was a general merger of prominent Red Sox rooters, just before closing time, and of chief importance in this group we must name Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. . . . Franklin, Jr., was in Boston-town enroute to Rye, N. H. . . . He and Tom Yawkey became better acquainted. . . .

If the Yawkey millions have been anti-New Deal heretofore, young Franklin, handsome and personable, must have accomplished something toward ironing that angle out. . . .

Eddie Duchin, Ted Musung, and Ted a Jim Farley, Jimmy Dolan, Ed Werner and Sally Clark were others who congratulated Mister Yawkey on his Golden Boys' ascent into second place as runners-up to the Yankees. . . . Incidentally, Miss Clark was acquired by a gentleman named Rhodes, and they danced everything but the newly-organized jam together most expertly. . . .

If Mr. Rhodes, an amateur, had been Miss Clark's partner when she was dancing recently at the Ritz, the opinion of your correspondent has it that the general effect would have been better than the one resulting from the alliance of talented Sally and the highly bored and professional Maurice. . . .

George Holland

One of the members of the Federal Writing Project, the writer, has been in the special government agency. A representative of the WPA, Mr. John McLaughlin, advised the writer that the project is not a "roughly" dozen discharges in WPA takes in the form of a group of inexperience. . . . The policy of the WPA is not to "give another chance" . . . No more. . . . One member and out in the future. . . .

"There's a Tavern in the Town—"

Jim Maloney is taking over Steuben's beverage shop in Otis street, Sept. 1. . . . The former heavyweight contender will employ only former pugilists as bartenders. . . . Sammy Fuller, who thinks Hank Armstrong is his you're-my-baby (and why do Armstrong and Eddie Meade, Armstrong's manager, dodge this sure-money Boston fight?) now owns the 24-hours-service delicatessen adjacent to the Hotel Broadway. . . .

It is a picturesque little all-night spot and business is good. . . . Squire Jack Sharkey and Johnny Wilson, two Boston ex-champions are catering to the appetites of Bostonians. The Squire is a day and evening spot, and former Middleweight Champion Wilson presiding at a barbecue-inn which is specially clean in the local brown belt and where the customers come late. . . . Lou Brouillard runs a nice joint in Worcester, and Al Melie is prospering with a place in Lowell. . . .

The moral seems to be that if you escape the ring in anything but a stupor, state of mind, the tavern and restaurant business makes a nice avocation. . . .

This is what Dutch Reegan, native of East Boston, who used to box in the 155-pound ranks as successor in ring craft to his brother Tommy, also believes. . . . He will be the partner of Johnny Donovan of South Boston, if the ABC finally decides to issue the last remaining liquor license to them for a tavern not far from City Hall square. . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Here is the lineup for the case of Attorney General Paul A. Dever, representing the Commonwealth, versus Mayor James O'Brien of Revere, on assorted charges. . . . Atty. Charles J. Dunn, in whose office Corporation Counsel of Revere J. Wallace Att'y. Gen'l. J. Burke Sullivan will prosecute. . . .

And this, a late development, should lead anybody's column. . . . Special Prosecutor Sullivan will be given a Superior Court judgeship after the O'Brien trial. . . .

Dwight Deere Wiman, producer of "I Married an Angel" and "On Borrowed Time," will present a musical show in Boston on or about October 1. . . . The title is "Great Lady." . . . The star may be Grace Moore. . . . The composer is Frederick Loewe. . . . Best of the summer theater tryouts, "Dame Nature," written by Patricia Collinge, the actress (from the French of Andre Birabeau), will be the Theater Guild's first New York production. . . . It will begin rehearsal next Monday. . . .

Governor Hurley will announce the names of 50 new state troopers within a few days. . . . The new troopers must pass three months under tests in training at Framingham. . . . If the appointments were delayed much longer, cold weather and its accompanying hardships for tenters would have set in. . . .

The pay off number yesterday was "576." . . . This is the number of Mayor Tobin's registration plate for the official car. . . . Do not suppose that there weren't many happy boys and girls in the Mayor's motorcade today. . . .

There's a baritone named Kenny Berry at the Silver Dollar Bar whose voice blends beautifully with that of his accompanist, Joe Patterson, the Jamaica Plain yodeler-musician. . . .

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL THINGS?

Casual simplicity — attractive utility — are the orders of the day in school things for youngsters of all ages. And September values will make your dollar go far.

FOOTWEAR?

The entire family can put its best foot forward this Autumn — a new, valuable footwear that is sturdy, stylish, in good looks, in practically a money's worth.

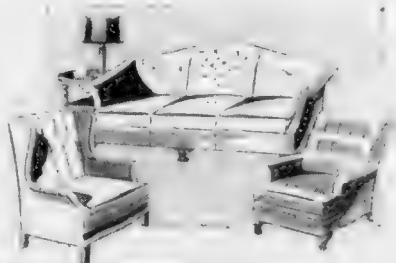

MILLINERY?

Women's hats have gone temperamental, again. And hat shops and millinery departments are chock full of interesting effects, at interesting prices, for interesting people.

FURNITURE?

Quality is higher, prices lower, than for years. September is the time to buy that odd piece, or to fit out a whole room or that new home you are furnishing.

Boston's Stores Will Greet You With the Year's Best Stocks and Values

Vacation days will soon be over. School days and work days and household days and social days and nights will follow—one after the other.

But, first will come days of preparation for an Autumn full of living. Days of planning and shopping for fall necessities and necessary luxuries.

The youngsters must step out for school, well fed, well clad, well shod. And Mother and Dad must greet the new season of duty and diversion in attire that is fresh and fashionable.

Homes — inside and out — call for new attire, too. And, because good living is paramount this Autumn of 1938, furniture and convenience—and—comfort accessories will be first on many shopping lists.

Do you seek children's school things? — men's or women's clothing; millinery; jewelry; furniture and household accessories — any type of Fall merchandise? You will find the choicest selections in the big BACK-HOME-TO-BUY Number of the Boston Record-American, Tuesday, September 6.

Editorial and advertising columns will be chock full with appealing, colorful, valueful suggestions for Fall. Don't miss this issue. It will be your September shopping guide.

BACK-HOME-TO-BUY Number of the DAILY EVENING RECORD-AMERICAN TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6

WOMEN'S CLOTHING?

Select your fall coat suit or gown in early September when the stocks of Boston's smart stores will offer you variety and value such as your eyes have never witnessed.

MEN'S CLOTHING?

This Fall men's suits and frockcoats and hats continue the happy trend away from monotony and in preference to style, color and distinction. Let Record-American editors show you the best and at many's worth.

FOOD?

Plan your menu to make really good nutrition mean something, enjoyment or good food by making the Fall at writing in the Record-American your guide to goodness and value.

JEWELRY?

September is the time to buy the things that will last. A good jewelry set is a good investment and a good gift. The Record-American will guide you to the best and at many's worth.

Mutilation Kidnaping Probe

Wife Justifies Mate's Revenge

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 24 (INS)—Only by force was Dr. Kent W. Berry, socialite physician, prevented from killing or performing a mutilation operation upon Irving Baker, handsome automobile dealer, a confessed participant in the sensational "jealousy kidnaping" of Baker, has admitted.

MRS. ELIZABETH BERRY

TRIANGLE—With her husband, Dr. Kent W. Berry, arrested in the mutilation attempt on Irving Baker at Olympia, Wash., Mrs. Elizabeth Berry today said that she would stick by her mate. Dr. Berry is said to have believed Baker was over-friendly with his wife.

Robert Smith, 32, arrested as the third of three men hired by the middle-aged society doctor to aid him in "teaching Baker a lesson" for allegedly making improper advances to the doctor's young wife, is alleged to have confessed his part in the crime.

DR. KENT W. BERRY

When the facts of the house party are known," she declared, "I am certain that people will feel the doctor was justified."

Omitting details of what happened at the party, held last July 6 at Dr. Berry's country home, Mrs. Berry added:

"I tried to avert a tragedy, but the whole thing seethed in the doctor's mind and he brooded over it. All that matters now is to get him cleared of those terrible kidnaping charges."

347-Mile Clip New Auto Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 24 (AP)—Captain George E. T. Eyston pounded his big automobile through the measured mile at 347.155 miles an hour today, the fastest ever attained by man on land, but failure of an electric eye timing device on the return journey robbed the Englishman of a new record.

Eyston drove his seven-ton "Thunderbolt" at a snail's pace down the 13-mile salt track and back again for the two runs necessary to establish an official time.

The timing apparatus, which functioned perfectly on the first run, failed to register on the second run as Eyston roared into the measured mile at an effort to beat the mark of 311.42 miles an hour he established here last year.

Eyston's time for the outward run was 16.37 seconds, far ahead of his fastest previous single run.

Offenses and Eyston, traveled faster on the return trip, possibly because of the new timing device.

"I don't feel the run was at all in vain," Eyston said. "The new Thunderbolt ran perfectly. I'll run again just as soon as the timing eye is fixed."

The tough luck Englishman explained that the bright morning sun caused the electric eye beam to fail. It rises when the car's shadow passes through the beam.

Moscow "Plugs In"

The Editor Says: Among high ranking officials of the Federal Government accused before the Dies Committee of being associated with Communist organizations is Oscar Chapman, Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Representative Noah M. Mason of Illinois, a member of the Committee, asserted Chapman is a member of the American League for Peace and Democracy, which he charged is used to promote Communism in the United States.

Also accused of, and ADMITTING, membership in the League is Harry Lambertson, Assistant Administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration.

As CHAIRMAN OF THE WASHINGTON UNIT OF THE LEAGUE, Mr. Lambertson has announced a campaign beginning September 1 to increase membership of the unit from 400 to 1,000, LARGELY AMONG GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES.

Not denying membership in the League, but failing to recall signing a membership card, Mr. Chapman is quoted in the New York Times as saying:

"I've been very interested in the cause and I DON'T KNOW OF ANY COMMUNISTS IN THE ORGANIZATION."

Mr. Chapman ought to acquaint himself better with the Communists to whom allegedly he lends the prestige of his office.

And certainly the Government employees whom Mr. Lambertson will seek to entice into the League for Peace and Democracy ought to know WHAT THEY ARE GETTING INTO.

For their information, and also the information of Mr. Chapman, the Hearst newspapers herewith offer a partial list of acknowledged and avowed Communists active in the American League for Peace and Democracy.

THE FOLLOWING NAMES of "Organizational Commitment" in the League are taken from the printed Proceedings of the Fourth National Congress of the People's Congress for Democracy and Peace at Pittsburgh, November 26-28, 1937, at which session the name of the organization was formally changed from "American League Against War and Fascism" to "American League for Peace and Democracy."

EARL BROWDER, General Secretary of the Communist Party in the United States, and Communist candidate for President in 1936.

JAMES W. FORD, Communist candidate for Vice President in 1936.

WILLIAM PATTERSON, member of the national Committee of the Communist Party.

C. A. HATHAWAY, editor of "The Daily Worker," official Communist newspaper in New York City, and member of the Communist National Committee.

MAX BEDACHT, member of the Communist National Committee, and National Secretary of the International Workers Order.

A. A. HELLER, contributing editor to "The Daily Worker."

ELIZABETH CURLEY FLYNN, head of the Women's Division of the Communist Party in New York State.

ANNA DAMON, member of the Communist National Committee.

CHARLES KRUMBEIN, Secretary of the Communist Party in New York State, who recently served a term in Federal prison for passport fraud.

ANGELO HERNDON, National Vice Chairman of the Young Communist League, and member of the Communist National Committee.

MARGARET COWL, member of the Communist National Committee, and head of the Women's Department at the National office of the Communist Party.

These are among the people MOST INTERESTED in advancing Communism in the United States, and clearly THEY regard the American League for Peace and Democracy as an EFFECTIVE VEHICLE FOR THAT PURPOSE.

Government officials have no business in that company, and members of that organization have no business to be Government officials.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24

CONSERVATIVE Democratic leaders during the next few weeks will make every effort to prevent the White House amateur politicians from inducing Senator Pope, recently defeated for re-nomination in the Idaho primaries, to run again for the Senate as a Progressive Independent.

That way lies party split, foul disaster, defeat and destruction. And real politicians know it.

There is a moral obligation in politics for a defeated candidate in a primary election to support the party nominee.

New Deal applause for Happy Chandler, for his sportsmanship in announcing his support of Senator Barkley, has scarcely died away to echo in Washington.

THIS THING of defeated candidates bolting the party ticket is like a two-edged knife, that cuts both ways.

If Pope should now run against the regular Democratic nominee in Idaho, a president would be set in this campaign for only New Deal Democrats, defeated in their primaries to run independently.

In view of the fact that the New Deal party has never acknowledged its own defeat, and that the New Deal Democrats, defeated in their primaries to run independently, are still in the ranks might easily spell the beginning of the end of the New Deal.

OUR POLITICAL history records few successful instances of the plan Senator Pope is now considering. He would have New Deal support from Washington, and John L. Lewis's CIO would be thrown into the breach. But the Democratic Party vote would go against him. He could not be elected, and Senator Borah might possibly find himself once more with a Republican colleague.

There are, of course, the usual rule-proving exceptions.

In 1896 Senator Henry M. Teller, life-long Republican, bolted McKinley, ran for the Senate as a Silver Republican, and in 1903 changed his party and was returned to the Senate as a Democrat. Few others who joined in that historic bolt survived politically.

In 1912 Theodore Roosevelt, denied the Republican nomination for President, bolted and nominated himself on the Bull Moose ticket. He split the Republican Party right down the back.

Democratic leaders of conservative temper fear that Pope's independent candidacy would be the signal in many states for independent conservative Democrats to run against brethren of the New Deal stripe.

IT WOULD probably hasten the tendency toward the re-alignment of parties in this country, and that is one thing which the New Deal coalition could not survive.

Such a move in Idaho would draw the line between the regular Democracy, and the New Deal. It would lead to many state splits over the Presidential nomination in 1940, which would send many a contesting delegation to the next Democratic national convention.

When party men fall out with one another within the party, the only profit is to the opposition.

The Brighter Side

You Can't Eat Cake And Have it, Too

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1933, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.

WILLIAM C. DURANT, bankrupt automobile manufacturer, who once had $100,000,000, comments on the sale of his art treasures from "Raymere," his New Jersey shore home.

"I have had the double enjoyment of collecting these gems of art and of living with them almost 30 years," he says. "There is no place for them in my present mode of living. I have no regrets."

Now that is a philosophy that was taught us early in life by our old man. He said that a fellow ought to always charge off against loss on his material possessions whatever pleasure he had gotten out of them.

He never had any $100,000,000 or any art treasures like Mr. Durant, to be sure. Our old man was always just a small operator in life but occasionally he accumulated a few belongings. Then something would happen that would compel him to sell everything he owned at just whatever it would bring, and you know nothing ever brings anything like its original price.

Once he managed to buy a small home for about $4000 where we lived for several years and then he had to sell it for half of that and some. Damon Runyon of the neighbors said they thought it was pretty tough he had to take such a loss. He said he did not figure it a loss. He said he had had at least $2000 worth of enjoyment out of the home while we lived there so he considered that he had broken about even.

It was the same way when he had to sell a treasured shotgun or something like that. He always said he felt that the pleasure he had gotten out of owning the article stood off any disparity in the price he originally paid and what he had to take. He often claimed that he got the best of many a deal, too, saying his pleasure in possession had been much greater than his financial loss.

Our old man was not a philosopher by trade. He was just a printer, and he never had any sizeable money. However, he did not envy those who had money. He said it was a mighty good thing. He said if somebody did not have money, where was he going to get any? He sometimes thought up great schemes for making money but they never panned out.

He went to Cripple Creek the time of the gold rush and instead of bustling around trying to stake out a few claims he evolved a system for beating a gambling game known as Faro Bank, of which he was a great student. It was a complicated system, requiring great patience and perseverance and as our old man had neither he hired a couple of fellows to play his system for him.

Oddly enough, the system was successful and every day his hired players would turn their profits over to him which were necessarily small because of the nature of the system. However in the course of three months the aggregate sum was considerable and then it developed that our old man had not only lost all his players' earnings but everything else he had in the world.

YOU SEE while they were playing his system, he was also playing Faro Bank but without any system, or at least without more system than the average Faro Bank player has and he lost three times as fast as the system could possibly win and he had to go to work setting type on the Cripple Creek Times to pay his players back wages. He did not mind. He said he got a lot of enjoyment finding out that his system worked.

We like to think we have absorbed some of our old man's philosophy about parting with possessions though we never have been able to acquire all his serenity in the parting. We are inclined to weep when we have to part with something we like and have owned a long time, especially if it is at a loss on the original price we paid.

It takes us quite awhile for us to reckon in the pleasure we have derived from the possession as against the loss like Mr. Durant and our old man. That is because we are the type that wants to eat our cake and have it, too, though we are gradually coming to the conclusion that this is something you cannot do in this world.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

THOSE cute little brassiere bathing suits cover a girl about as effectively as a polite hand covers a yawn. They are just a modest gesture.

AMONG the average man's summer romances, there is no such thing as a perennial. Like the brave, they "die but once"—and never revive, next season.

THE AVERAGE woman's aim may be a bit wobbly when she tries to throw a ball, but it seems to be perfectly accurate when she aims a gun at her philandering husband.

NO MAN will stand quietly by and hear his friends slandered. And neither will a woman; she just picks up the nearest hammer and joins in the chorus.

A GIRL who begs the Love-lorn Editor to tell her how to "win back" a double-crossing sweetheart would probably beg her dentist to tell her how to remove a painful toothache.

LOTS of marriages are like those long Sunday motor rides, which start out to be a pleasure trip and end by being an ENDURANCE test.

IT IS SAFER for a bachelor to play around with a lot of women than to devote himself to just TWO women—because any woman would rather be one of a crowd than just one of two.

MARKETS BOSTON AMERICAN COMMENT

Deal to Crash, Haney Feels

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

EAST JAFFREY, N. H., Aug. 24.—Most thoughtful people today agree there is danger American institutions may deteriorate. This danger, it is agreed, is at bottom much the same as that which has beset other nations and is amply illustrated by the fate of the people in Germany and elsewhere.

Fortunately, with us there has been no sinister coup of bloody reaction. The form of our institutions still stands and our dictator still has to ask for what he gets.

But the fact remains that there would today be no F. D. R. in America, with his bare trust in political purges, distributions of billions among voters and repelling of our people themselves were not demoralized.

To this extent our democracy still works. Our dictator has to do what we want. But the trouble is that he is able to influence us and that our character has been so affected by adversity that we are becoming an easy prey for the demagogue.

Students of government have always recognized that democracy is a highly dangerous method, the dangers lying in demagoguery and bureaucracy. If the people themselves come to be dependent upon the government for their ideas and for their livelihood, they no longer control the government save in name. Then, even if the government were for the people, it could not be of the people.

Today, therefore, the great danger is that we will have:

"He means well, he promises us security. Therefore, we will let him run things. As long as he takes care of us, why should we worry?"

That is not democracy. It is autocracy.

Worse than that is to let one man loathsome to a mass of people.

The problem of the future of our country is to decide whether the American people as a nation will allow the sense and decency which have characterized it in the past and will not allow it to become a nation which will regard them. The danger is that the American people as a group of selfish individuals may do the things and vote the way and the promises of a demagogue who will use their sense and decency to lead them into ruin.

The next danger is a more subtle one. It is the danger that the people will be so divided by the demagogue that they will be unable to do the things which are necessary to the well-being of the nation.

I am hopeful that the people will do the things which are necessary to the well-being of the nation. I am hopeful that the people will do the things which are necessary to the well-being of the nation.

Many people are beginning to feel that "right years is enough." My conclusion is that hesitation and occasional reactions will prevail as long as the demagogue remains an active force. The time, however, is not far away when those of keen foresight will see the end of borrowing and inflation.

At the worst, the New Deal will fail and crash not much later than 1941.

National Income Gain Forecast

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

One of the important barometers measuring the actual economic strength of the nation is the physical volume of dollars available for spending money or making payments. This is the national income.

While our economy may seem decidedly depressed and is frankly based on a price index of farm products, it can be said that past experience has proven the methods employed by the government in determining the national income.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Factory payrolls and employment increased between June and July, marking "a definite improvement in the employment situation," in the words of Secretary of Labor Perkins, who reported the gains.

Railroad loadings continue to show excellent improvement. Southern Pacific's figures for traffic originating on its own lines last week reached the best figure since November last. The Reading Company reports that, so far, August results are running 6.2 per cent ahead of July.

Manufactured gas sales in the New England states showed a gain in June, according to the authoritative American Gas Association compilation.

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—Automobile parts suppliers hailed the decision of the Ford Motor Company to use hydraulic brakes on its new model. It means big business for several companies with which orders for tooling and installation of machinery have been placed.

Millinery Pay Decision Near

By JOHN W. ENGLISH

Thousands of millinery workers in Massachusetts will soon benefit from a decision that the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation will make relative to minimum wages in the industry.

It is probable the board will recommend acceptance of the minimum wage of $1.00 per week. The board is expected to make a decision in the near future.

Following a public hearing the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation took the matter under advisement, but Chairman Thomas E. Casey indicated the majority report will be accepted and carried into effect.

Frank P. Fenton, New England chairman for the American Federation of Labor, will make the major address at a Labor Day gathering in Savannah, Ga. He has been assigned by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to represent him at the meeting.

The assignment was given to Fenton during his recent visit to Washington, D. C., where he was in conference with President Green with relation to general organization.

Payrolls, Jobs Show July Rise

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Bureau of Economic Analysis today announced that the number of jobs in the United States increased in July by 100,000, and that the total payroll for that month was $1.5 billion, up from $1.4 billion in June.

The increase in jobs was the largest since July 1934, when the number of jobs increased by 150,000. The total payroll for July was the highest since July 1934, when it was $1.6 billion.

The increase in jobs was due to a combination of factors, including a rise in the number of jobs in the manufacturing and construction industries, and a rise in the number of jobs in the service industries.

As compared with last July, factory forces were reduced a fourth and wage earners' payrolls were about one-third smaller, Secretary Perkins asserted.

Davis Cup Team Now Official

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (INS)—The United States Davis Cup team which will defend the trophy against Australia was announced last night as Ben Hudge of Oakland, Cal., No. 1 in national ranking; Robert Riggs of Los Angeles, ranked No. 2; Joseph H. Hunt of Los Angeles, ranked No. 3, and Gene Macko of Los Angeles, ranked No. 4.

The announcement was made by Walter I. Fater, chairman of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association Davis Cup committee of management.

The actual order of play will not be decided until the draw is made in Philadelphia 24 hours before the first contest Saturday, Sept. 3, but it is assumed Hudge will play No. 1 singles, Riggs No. 2; Hudge and Macko the double, with Hunt held in reserve.

There will again be non-playing captain of the team during the challenge round at the German Lawn Tennis Club in Philadelphia over the Labor Day weekend.

Louis Jacot Makes an Appeal

Louis Jacot, an ardent devotee of Isaac Walton, is a sad but fisherman today. The famous restaurateur of better days has lost his two fly rods and is making an appeal to the finder for their return. Some "dude" and a group of friends had fished Knap pond in Gorton with nightly sport success, but on leaving the spot left behind his two fly rods and a landing net.

N.W. Louis Jacot is one of the best fishermen in the city and his "angle iron" and his landing net are his pride and joy. He can be reached at the Hotel Commander, Cambridge, where he promises the best in the house for the return of his poles.

WOMEN COPY

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 (INS)—Even the women have fallen for it. Mrs. Josephine Balthus, 38, played 154 holes of golf yesterday over a regulation length course at an average of 92 strokes per round. She said she felt fine after the grind.

Jimmy Slattery Is | Now 'Broke,' Once
At Trail's End | Earned Thousands

By JACK CONWAY

THEY USED to call him Jimmy Slattery of the Fourth Ward of Buffalo. He had jet black hair that reminded boxing fans of the Jack Dempsey of Toledo who knocked out the gigantic Jess Willard under a boiling sun.

Mr. Boston

When Slattery fought "Young" Stribling in Buffalo a crowd of 15,000 persons jammed the arena to see the bout. Other milling thousands tried to find their way past the mounted police in an effort to crash one of the doors to Charley Murray's club.

There was another match between Slattery and Stribling in the New York Garden with 22,000 persons on hand to see it.

Then came the New York ball park battle between Slattery and Dave Shade with a crowd of 70,000 cheering frantically as the black haired puncher from the Fourth Ward tried for a knockout.

I can visualize Slattery standing there in the center of the ring with his right hand pulled back as he tried to find an opening for a knockout punch.

Shade suddenly fell into a crouch, and started bobbing and weaving two or three feet above the canvas of the ring.

Shade pulled his right hand back a bit, then like a flash came shooting up off the canvas with his right hand flying towards Slattery's jaw. The punch was a perfect one, and Slattery was knocked out.

Slattery kept boxing, but he never fully recovered from the crushing effects of the Shade knockout. His spirit cracked, and he started to hit the high spots.

Slattery fought a losing battle in his new role. The final chapter was written in a Washington police court the other day when Slattery was fined $5 for drinking in a public park.

Jimmy told newsmen how he has gone from city to city, and has kept body and soul together by working on WPA jobs.

That dark haired, handsome young fellow who used to get down $5000 to $15,000 every time he pulled on his gloves on a major boxing contest is "broke."

There is something about earning big money easily when young that often causes a lack of appreciation of value.

Sad Case of Willie Jackson

THERE IS the case of Willie Jackson, New York lightweight, who earned $500,000 boxing. The high spot of Jackson's ring career was a one-round knockout of Johnny Dundee. Jackson and Dundee later met in numerous other bouts, one of the matches being staged by Roy Green's Fenway A. A. at Mechanics Building.

Jackson could earn money, but couldn't save it. I saw Jackson occasionally at the time of major bouts. He is usually around the fight office greeting people who still remember him, and thankful for a ticket that will enable him to see the bout.

Jack Malone, who used to draw $20,000 gates in Boston, is working in the Ford plant in Detroit, his ring earnings gone.

Sam Langford and Joe Wolcott, who were top money makers in their day, now play athletic night. Neither has much money today.

Many of the old fighters who have gone "broke" will tell you that they would do things differently if they were starting all over again. I doubt if they would. Human nature doesn't change much.

LAST WINTER when I was in Havana they told me "Kid" Chocolate was "broke." Remember the "Kid"? He came from Havana to the United States, and back in the daffy days of 1927-1930 he was as great a boxing sensation in New York as Joe Louis is today.

Chocolate could do about everything right when in the ring under fire. He was a good boxer, a sharp, clean puncher.

The "Kid" liked life too much. I saw him whirl out of Gus Wilson's ramp at Orangeburg, N. Y., one night seated behind the wheel of a flashy sports car.

There was a party for a few friends and later Chocolate's car was wrapped around a telegraph pole. The "Kid" was fortunate to escape with his life.

They idolized Chocolate in Harlem, and being young and quite human the little colored sensation accepted the attention of the crowd. He attended the parties that were tossed in his honor, and gloried as his well wishers praised his boxing ability.

Then something happened. Chocolate lost his boxing magic and was shuffled out of the high spots in boxing. His money went quickly, and he ended up on a park bench in Havana where he was pointed out to visitors as a great featherweight champion of another ring period.

HENRY ARMSTRONG, triple world's champion, has the right idea as he places his ring earnings in annuities. Armstrong already has $100,000 set aside for the time when he is no longer able to earn thousands of dollars with his fists.

Joe Louis has also gone in for annuities, and has already saved $250,000. Louis should be the wealthiest of great athletes when he retires.

I hope every youngster earning money in professional sports reads the news item from Washington telling about Jimmy Slattery's sorry plight. If they do, it may help them to save their earnings for the day when they are no longer able to earn large sums of money, and when those sums are sorely memories.

Red Sox Now Hold 2nd Place and Boston won 10-0 for Governor and Jimmy Fox for mayor

Jimmy Fox

You know why if you were one of the fortunate who sat in on the Tuesday night fight at the Fenway? As a result of which the Red Sox are in second place and the Indians are in third as they enter the final game of their series today.

All Fox did was hit his 35th home run with three on and two out in the ninth to give the Fenway flock an amazing 14-12 nightcap victory to go with a 1-3 first game win after he had fashioned homer No. 34 in the third frame and had contributed a most timely double in the eighth.

And all of them did in the same outburst was his brother's homer, with two on and two out in the eighth, after he had made his 14th circuit drive with two on in the fifth and scoring by his double in the sixth.

Yes, that's right. It was a baseball afternoon the like of which probably never before was seen again and the same night some 15,000 spectators of an army of semi-nudists as they say, were in the stands.

The other 2500, faint hearted, left in disgust either when the Sox were seven runs behind in the second or when they were four runs behind going into the eighth or when they were trailing by two runs starting their last time at bat.

How that minority must be kicking itself this morning.

Regardless of the outcome of today's game, the Sox will remain in second place for another 24 hours at least.

And it's the guess of everybody who saw them perform yesterday that they broke the Indians' hearts by that two-try triumph and that they'll never fall as low as third place again this season.

Indeed, if the pace-setting Yanks were but three or four games nearer, there'd be plenty of wagers made on the Back Bay boys winning out.

They certainly displayed the punch and courage of champions as they lived up to their promise to take over the second rung the first time the opportunity presented itself.

BIG VOTE FOR CRONIN

At least a couple of generations will come and go before the peer of yesterday's second game at Fenway Park will be duplicated. . . .

Unhappily, Jimmy Fox was the hero, but Manager Jim Cronin was the young man that set the stage for "Double N" by driving in five runs on two out of three. . . . But for the outburst of his "Fenway Kid," the 7th inning grand slam would have been nothing more or less than another home run by Mr. James Yarnery Fox, his 35th incidentally. . . . In our history over the double won of the Red Sox do not overlook the fact that after shutting out the Pirates in the first game, the Sox went 11 in the nightcap. . . . Instead of journeying down to the Rhode Island Country Club, Tom Howe will slip over to Walpole tomorrow to defend his assistant pro's title. . . . It looks like Jimmy Fox took too much of a gamble when he signaled Jack Wilson to fast ball Ken Keltner in the 11th inning of the second game yesterday. . . . Hitters lining the power of Arlin must be worked on.

Joe Cronin with the power of old Dartmouth fullback, is "Faintly" carefully. . . . Art Johnson, the old Dartmouth fullback, is "Faintly" carefully. . . . Dave "Paddy McPartland" Rosen was thrilled to the extent that he contemplated buying a ticket for the second encounter yesterday at Fenway Park, after his "Box" Higgins had made five hits out of six times at bat in the opener. . . . So as to avoid any chance of getting out of his character, Tony Keltner had a private showing of a "Mickey Mouse" film at his home, while he was con- valencing. . . . Bill Coleman, "Doc" Ross, Jimmy Travers and Warren Hopkins left Joe teary out on a limb when Johnny Kroner connected with a foul ball which landed in their box yesterday at Fenway Park. . . . Between his pain scurrying for cover and Johnny Peacock jabbing his catcher's mitt at him Joe was lucky he didn't lose another foot. . . . Wild pitches and foul tips almost undressed Empire in Chief Bill Summers during the second game. . . . At last Win Green has blossomed out in that white suit, he's been talking about for a couple of years. . . . He has developed into such a Beau Brummel that he's now known as "Blind" Green. . . . Freddie Corcoran met Wes Ferrell yesterday in Finky Higgins New York and they "guffed" for a half hour on lower 3rd Ave. GREENBERG.

Early Days Hard For Armstrong

This is the fourth in a series of thirteen articles of Henry Armstrong, called by experts "the greatest fighter for his weight" in the ring today. Carried to the top of his profession by intelligent perseverance, "Hammering Henry" will tell an intimate story of the struggle that brought him the three championships of the world—from amateur to preliminary boy to the highest awards of pugilism.

By HENRY ARMSTRONG

(World Featherweight, Welterweight and Lightweight Champion)

We weren't home long when we decided that things were too slow there and after considerable discussion between Harry and myself we decided that the place for us was California. The immediate problem, as usual, was the shortage of money. We managed finally to get together a few dollars. I don't recall now how much it was that we started out with, but I do remember vividly that on the way to the Coast I experienced what perhaps were the toughest days of my life.

It was the one brief period when I resorted to hobnobbing and it wasn't very pleasant—especially postponing meals, sometimes several of them in a row. And you can get extremely hungry when you are around 17 years old and doing a lot of walking out in the fresh air.

We reached Los Angeles late in the summer of 1930. During the next few weeks we managed to get by largely because of the generosity of Leroy Haynes, the big colored fighter, who ultimately was the last to fight Primo Carnera. He helped us in a hundred different ways—until a promoter became interested in me and this led to my changing my name to Armstrong, and starting out again in the amateurs.

I won my first fight, the usual three-rounder; then, in my second one, I dislocated my shoulder, and was out of action for about three weeks. More tough luck. We overcame this, however, simply enough. While I was idle, Harry doubled in terms as manager and fighter, and the occasional bouts he obtained kept us going until I could fight again, and by way of added precaution against missing any meals we started a shoe shine stand.

Our troubles continued with scarcely a let-up through the next few months until, somewhere along about this time they started preparation for the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles. Although I had fought elsewhere as a professional, I decided to take a fling at making the boxing team.

I lost in the Southern California featherweight finals, and promptly flopped back among the professionals as soon as possible thereafter. It was then that my career really got under way.

SOLD FOR $250
When things were at their toughest, Harry had sold an interest in me for a few dollars. I hadn't shown much promise up to this time.

However, I must have impressed Wirt Ross, a well-known manager on the Coast, for he bought up that interest in me that Harry had parceled out. He paid $250. A couple of years later he unloaded to my present manager, Eddie Mead, for $10,000.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, Armstrong tells where he got his amazing punching style. Don't miss this article.

FIRE, WATER PUT ON SHOW

First a fire and then a hydrant "geyser" provided thrills for Washington street crowds today.

Spouting 75 feet in air, the downtown "Old Faithful" drenched passersby, flooded the street and tangled traffic.

The big column of water roared aloft for 15 minutes, costing the city an estimated $750.

Fire department officials said the "geyser" was caused when an auto snapped off a "larry" hydrant.

That's a hydrant ordinarily hidden below street level and covered by a manhole lid.

The "larry" hydrant had been raised several hours earlier and used as firemen fought a $15,000 blaze in a four-story brick building at 691 Washington street.

The fire itself had been an exciting spectacle, with women scaling ladders and heavy smoke pouring out windows.

After the fire was extinguished, somebody forgot to put the "larry" hydrant back where it belonged below the street.

"Old Faithful" was the result.

Roosevelt Tax Aide Quits Post

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt accepted today the resignation of Roswell Magill, his under secretary of the Treasury, with an expression of "genuine regret."

Magill, who has been the Treasury's top tax expert for a year and a half, recalled in a letter to the President that he had accepted his appointment in January, 1937, with the understanding he would return to his professorship in the Columbia University Law School this September.

Magill added that if occasion arose in which he might serve again, he hoped the President would call upon him.

'FRAMED!' CRIES WALDRON IN FLORIDA CELL

EXCLUSIVE

VERO BEACH, Fla., Aug. 24—Declaring he was the victim of a "frame-up," William G. Waldron, 61-year-old landscape gardener, today told the Boston Evening American he would gladly return to Massachusetts to fight charges he looted his dead wife's estate.

Wires He Feared Killed Hawks

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24 (INS)—The aviation world today mourned one of its pioneers—Lieutenant-Commander Frank M. Hawks, 41-year-old speed pilot, who was killed with Sportman J. Hazard Campbell when their plane struck a high tension wire and crashed at nearby East Aurora last night.

Holder of about 225 air records in United States and Europe at one time, Hawks, whose name was synonymous with speed, gave up such daring performances a year ago to concentrate on the "safety and comfort" of flying.

"Enough's enough," commented the speed demon of the skies after two crack-ups.

Before his record-breaking flight from Glendale, Cal., to New York in 1929, Hawks told a friend: "I expect I'll die in an airplane some day."

Electrical wires and communication lines near air fields were what Hawks feared most. He regarded them as a constant menace, and that menace produced the tragedy that overcame him and Campbell shortly after their tiny Gwinn Aircraft left the polo field on the estate of E. H. Rogers.

Hawks, vice-president of the Gwinn Aircraft Company here, came to Buffalo to demonstrate the stubby biplane with its three landing wheels to Campbell. Eye-witnesses expressed belief they had not seen the wires until it was too late to avoid disaster.

Wheels of the plane stripped wires from the poles and the craft dropped to earth in flames. Hawks lived about two hours, dying in a Buffalo hospital ahead of Campbell, 43-year-old brother-in-law of Seymour Knox, international polo star.

Subway Proposal Loses in House

The House ways and means committee this afternoon rejected the proposal to build a Cambridge subway extension from Harvard square to North Cambridge at a cost of $5,000,000.

Construction of the subway extension was recommended by Governor Hurley in a surprise special message to the Legislature, the House referring the message to the committee.

In its report to the House, the committee reported "no legislation necessary."

"My wife died a natural death and the property she left was legally willed to me," the Stockbridge, Mass., tree surgeon stated from a cell in Vero County jail, where he awaits arrival of Massachusetts police.

Waldron was arrested in the street at Sebastian to climax a nation-wide search which began with issuance of warrants charging larceny from the estate of Mrs. Edith Blair Waldron, his wife. Although willed to him, the $50,000 estate was still in the hands of administrators.

RETURNS TO FIGHT

"All this trouble started as the result of jealous relatives," Waldron declared.

"I did not run away. I did not know police wanted me until I was told so here. There is no need for extradition; I will gladly go back at once and fight any and all charges.

"I drove here on a pleasure trip to a place I had visited before. At no time did I attempt to hide. There was nothing unusual in my wife's death. She had been ill a long time and

Ignores Wife, Leaps to Death

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (INS)—Ignoring pleas of his wife not to jump, Robert Romm, 37, today plunged to his death at her feet from the roof of a five-story Bronx tenement.

Arousing the neighborhood with her frantic cries of "please don't jump!" Mrs. Romm fainted when her husband's body hurtled through the air.

Later she told police he had been drinking and this morning chased her from their apartment.
